SPEAKERS

Richard Baldwin

Professor of International Economics at the Graduate Institute Geneva and Policy Director of CEPR

Professor Baldwin is the founder of the economic policy portal VoxEU.org. In addition to his research and teaching, he advises governments and international organisations around the world on globalisation and trade policy issues. In 1990-91 he served as a Senior Staff Economist for US President George Bush's Council of Economic Advisors, having completed his PhD in Economics at MIT with Paul Krugman (with whom he has published a half dozen articles). His latest book, The Great Convergence: Information technology and the New Globalisation, was published by Harvard University Press in November 2016.

Adam Posen

President of the Peterson Institute for International Economics

From 2009 to 2012, during the global financial crisis, Posen served as an external voting member of the Bank of England's Monetary Policy Committee, and was a globally recognised advocate of activist macroeconomic policy response to the crisis. He is the author or editor of six books, and has served as a visiting scholar or consultant to central banks throughout Europe, North America, and East Asia. He is in his fifth term as an Economic Advisor to the US Congressional Budget Office. Mr Posen received his PhD in Political Economy from Harvard University, and has been the recipient of fellowships and major research grants from the European Commission, the Ford Foundation, the Sloan Foundation, and the US National Science Foundation.

Tarun Ramadorai

Professor of Financial Economics at Imperial College London

Professor Ramadorai's research interests include asset pricing, international finance, and household finance. In addition to his roles within Imperial College Business School, Professor Ramadorai is currently Chair of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Committee on Household Finance, a nominated member of the UK-India Financial Partnership (IUKFP), a Research Fellow of the Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR) in London, a Founding Senior Fellow of the Asian Bureau of Finance and Economic Research (ABFER), and a non-resident Senior Fellow of the National Council for Applied Economic Research (NCAER). He is an associate editor for Management Science and the Review of Financial Studies, and has received several prizes for his academic papers, most recently the James A Lebenthal Memorial prize for excellence in Municipal Finance research. He has taught on a wide range of programmes, including consulting, invited lectures, and executive education for KPMG, the Man Group, OxAM, RioTinto, ICBC, CCB, and Norges Bank. Professor Ramadorai has a PhD in Business Economics from Harvard University, and prior to his role at Imperial, he spent over a decade at the University of Oxford.

Mark Machin

President and CEO, CPPIB

Mr Machin was appointed President & CEO at CPPIB in June 2016. CPP Investment Board invests the funds of the Canada Pension Plan on behalf of its 20 million Canadian contributors and beneficiaries.

Mr Machin joined CPPIB in 2012 as CPPIB's first President for Asia. In November 2013, he became Head of International and was responsible for the organisation's international investment activities, managing global advisory relationships and leading the organisation internationally. Prior to joining CPPIB, Mr Machin had a 20 year career at Goldman Sachs, where he was most recently Vice Chairman of Asia ex-Japan. He was a member of Goldman Sachs' Asia Management Committee and the Firmwide Capital Committee. Mr Machin studied undergraduate and graduate medicine and holds a BA in Physiological Sciences from Oriel College, Oxford University and BM BChir from Downing College, Cambridge University. He qualified as medical doctor in 1990. After practicing medicine in the UK, in 1991 he joined Goldman Sachs in London in European Corporate Finance.

Leslie Teo

Managing Director and Chief Economist,
GIC

Mr Teo oversees the economics and investment strategy team at GIC. GIC is a private company fully owned by the Government of Singapore. The company manages parts of Singapore's reserves on behalf of the government. The team is responsible for asset allocation, total portfolio construction and identification of key long-term trends that would impact GIC's portfolio. He holds a BA from the University of Chicago and PhD in Economics from the University of Rochester. Prior to joining GIC, he was at the International Monetary Fund. During his Fund career, he worked in the Asia Pacific, Monetary and Financial Systems, Policy Development and Review, and European II Departments. He was also Head of the Financial Surveillance Division at the Monetary Authority of Singapore.
